

Advance Indexed Portfolios

Advance Managed
Portfolios options

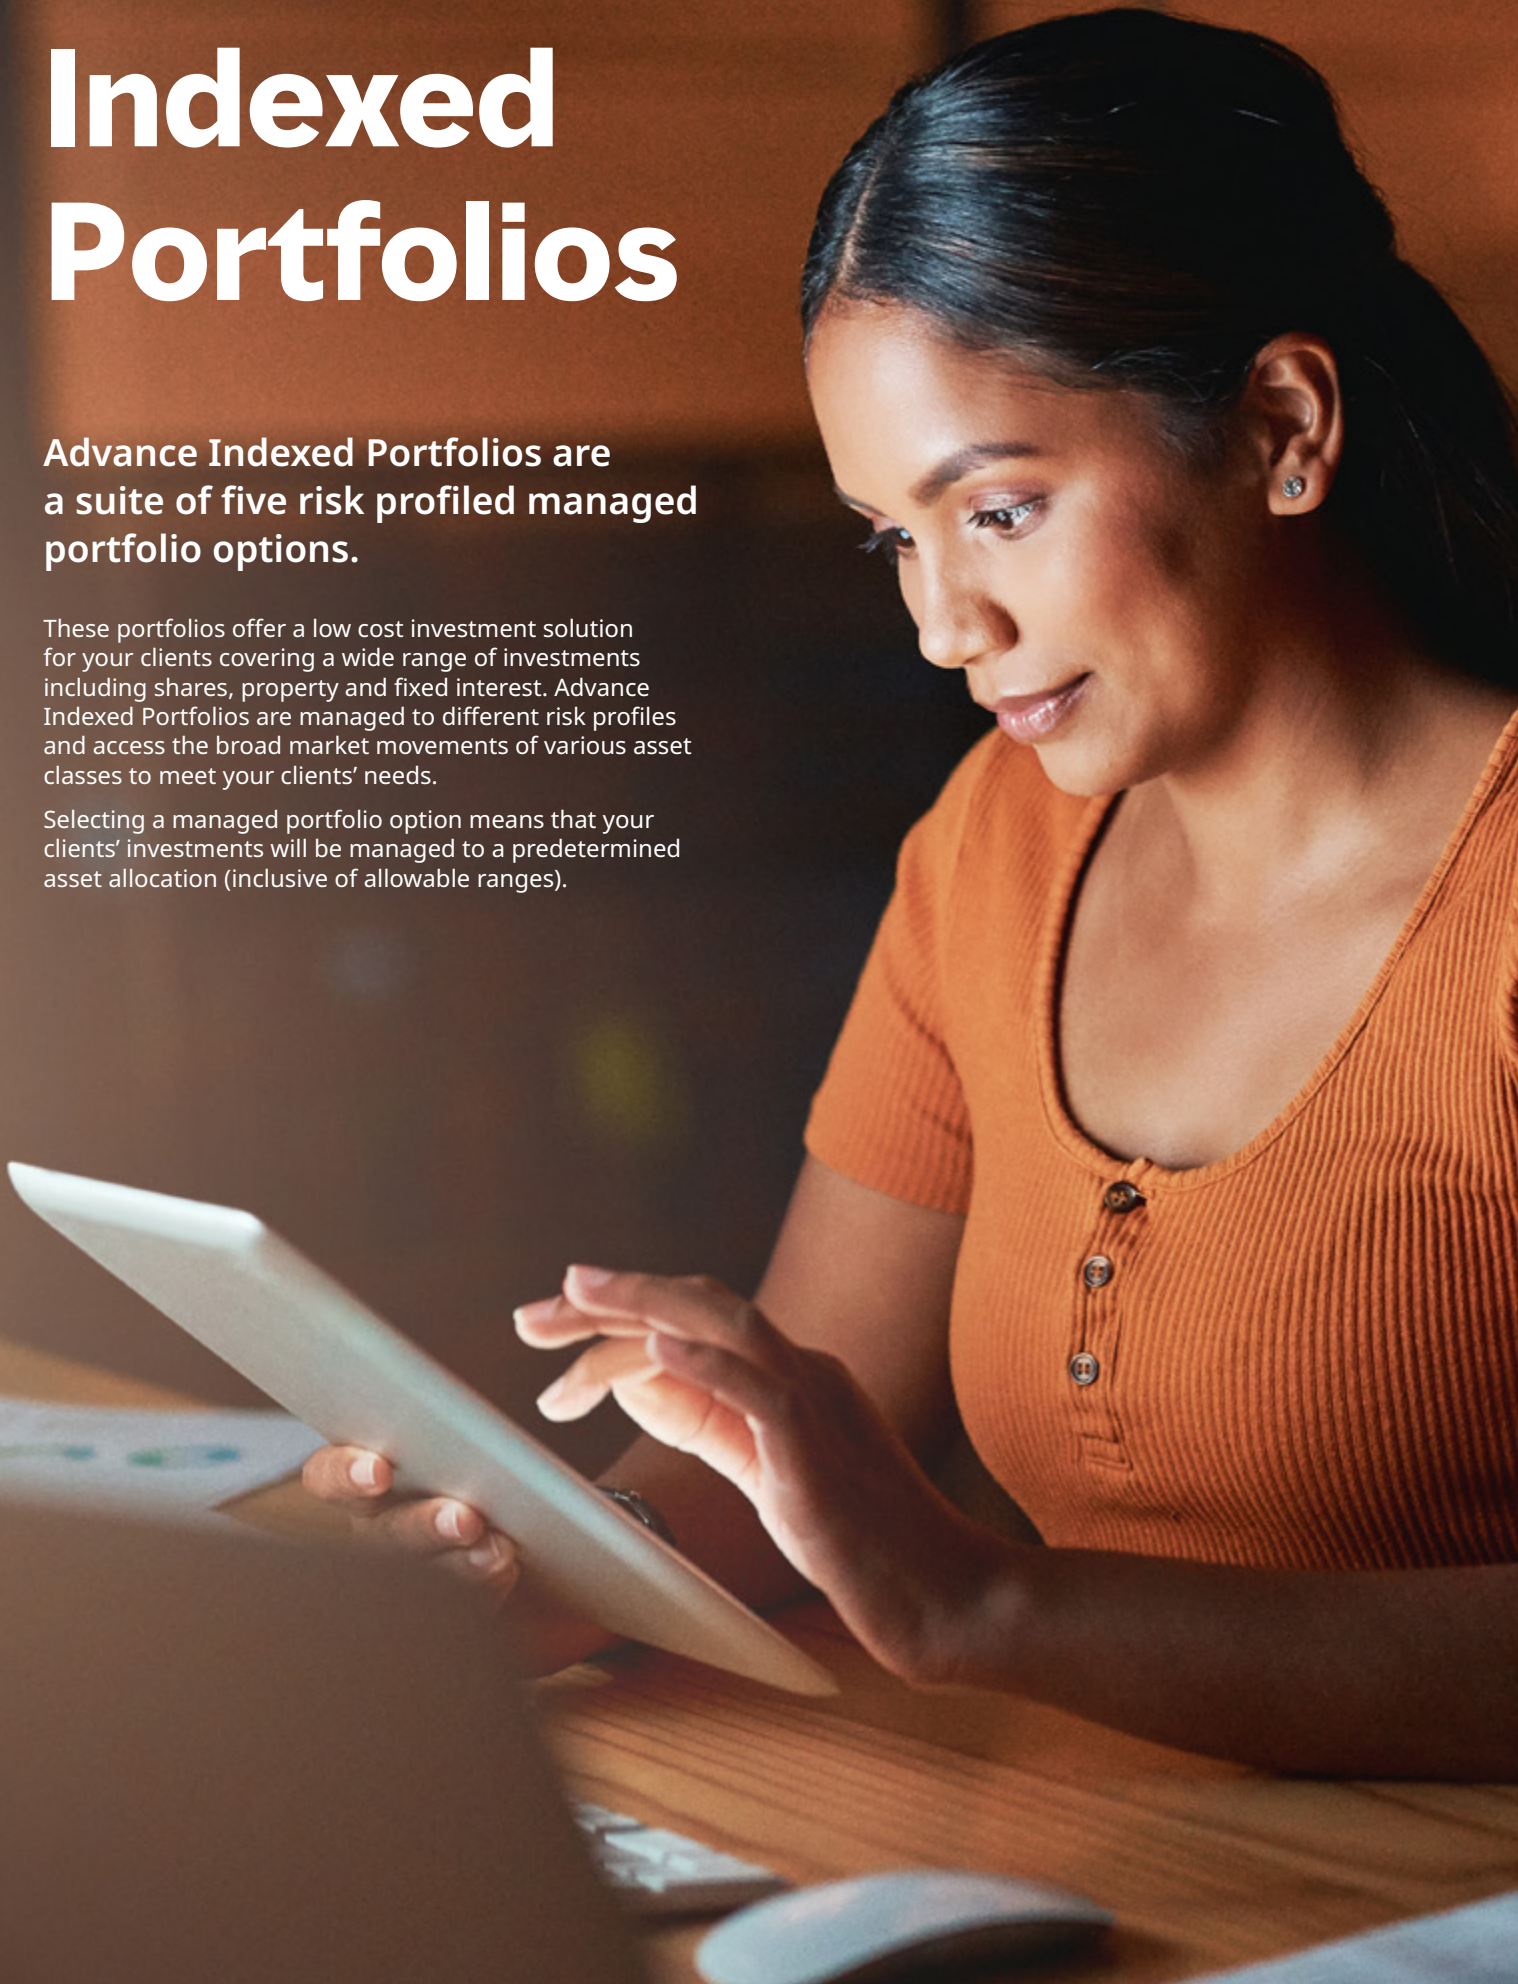

Advance Indexed Portfolios

Advance Indexed Portfolios are a suite of five risk profiled managed portfolio options.

These portfolios offer a low cost investment solution for your clients covering a wide range of investments including shares, property and fixed interest. Advance Indexed Portfolios are managed to different risk profiles and access the broad market movements of various asset classes to meet your clients' needs.

Selecting a managed portfolio option means that your clients' investments will be managed to a predetermined asset allocation (inclusive of allowable ranges).

How are Advance Indexed Portfolios managed?

Mercer is the investment manager for the portfolios, providing investment products and solutions across a range of asset classes, including shares, property and fixed interest.

Advance Indexed Managed Portfolios are constructed according to Mercer's robust research and risk management process which combines quantitative and qualitative analysis. Advance Indexed Portfolios are assembled using a range of index funds and exchange traded funds, each selected to play a specific role in terms of income, growth and diversification, within each risk-based profile.

Asset class ranges have been set to allow for the flexibility to adjust to changing market and investment circumstances. Final decisions are determined through the team's investment process, combining peer review and Investment Committee approval.

Minimum cash holdings may be determined by the relevant platform provider. Mercer's investment team factor this in as part of the asset allocation decision-making within the portfolios.

The Investor Directed Portfolio Services (IDPS) operator of the Managed Portfolios rebalances all managed portfolio options regularly, establishing minimum transaction levels to protect against unnecessary costs and impact to clients. You can access all information and reporting for your clients' investments through the selected IDPS platform.
